Why is delivering “Mail by the Pail” important?

Hightower Lowdown

September 13, 2016

Although most of us take it for granted, America’s postal service is an amazing bargain.

Buy one 48-cent stamp, and postal workers will deliver your envelope to any address in the country by plane, train, bus, boat, truck, car, bike, push-cart, mule, on-foot, – or, all of the above. But to really get your money’s worth, mail something to someone in this zip code: 48222.

That’s the only floating zip code in the US. It’s a 45-foot mail boat that has been a registered US Post Office since 1948. Named the J.W. Westcott II, this postal boat is the mail box for crew members working aboard the giant freighters hauling grain, iron ore, and other commodities across the five great lakes. Except for loading at one port, then unloading hundreds of miles away, these long-haul merchant ships never stop, with crews stuck on board for weeks.

So the Westcott, based near Detroit, chugs out to deliver letters and packages as each of the freighters passes by. The skilled pilots of the mail boat maneuver it right up against a steep steel side of the moving freight vessels, keeping perfect pace with the big ships’ speed.

Then, in a very low-tech (but highly-efficient) delivery technique, someone on the freighter lowers a bucket tied to a rope down to the Westcott. The mail boat pilot puts a bag of letters and packages addressed to people on that ship into the bucket, which is pulled back up, and then the little boat peels away from the freighter. Now that’s service!

The official motto of the 48222 zip code is “mail by the pail.” It’s all part of our public Post Office’s amazing commitment to deliver service to all – not just to the rich and the easy-to-reach. Discussion regarding what we do about the State Treasurer position – Democrat failed to secure ballot, as top 2 percentage of votes were for Republican candidates; thus, our choices are abstention, vote Rep. or secure write-in candidate (most likely would be unsuccessful this late in the race).

Chair's Comment

Ed Herde

The old saying that you don't want to wake up the day after the election and regret you didn't do more applies now more than at any other election in the lifetime of probably everyone who is reading this. According to the polling an angry citizenry seems to be getting more and more deaf to rational discussion, and choosing to ignore all of Donald Trump's transgressions, has been taken over by emotional hate and racism. Polling has shown that this turn in the presidential race has carried some U.S. Senate races with it and has dimmed a previously optimistic outlook for Democrats taking the majority in the U.S. Senate. Hillary Clinton's campaign team is doing Secretary Clinton and the American people a disservice. The inability of the Clinton campaign to recognize the kind of campaign that inspires people and gets them to vote, even when her Democratic primary opponent gave a months' long master class on the subject, has further drove down Secretary Clinton's numbers. It is common knowledge that the higher voter turnout is, the better Democrats do. It is also well known that negative campaigning drives down voter turnout. Clinton's campaign team is blowing this.

There are still five weeks to go and a lot of voters out there who will vote against authoritarian rule, and the thought of a president spewing hate from the oval office may turn out a large number of them. As volunteers for the issues and candidates we feel are important we can influence the outcome mostly in the more local of the elections by getting these voters to vote down the ballot for our local races. Who occupies these local offices has a major impact on our daily lives. In the 25th LD Legislative races, the County Council 2nd district race, and in the County Executive's race we have five extremely forward thinking candidates. Jamie Smith and Michelle Chatterton for the State House, Karl Mecklenburg for the State Senate, Carolyn Edmonds for the County Council, and Rick Talbert for County Executive are candidates who all display people centered policies. Each of these candidates speak of issues and how they affect people. Their focus is on the citizenry's quality of life, not on the maximization of private sector economic activity with disregard to everything else. Money is not speech, corporations are not people, and these five candidates understand that, and each and every one of them would work for your and my wellbeing with respect to our children's public education, our health, our environment, equality among us all, our economic wellbeing, and our general quality of life. It is go time. Do not wake up on November 9th wishing you had done just a little bit more.
